3. Once you have your logon created, search for your ideal place

The screenshot shows the Eagle Crest Property Management website's search listings page. The browser's address bar displays the URL: http://www.eaglecrestmanagement.com/index.php?action=searchpage. The navigation menu includes Home, Search Listings (circled in red), Property Management, Tenant Services, and About. The main content area is titled "Search Listings" and contains a form with the following fields: "What type of property are you looking for?" with checkboxes for All Listings, Rentals (academic) (checked), Rentals (all others), and June 09 (checked). The "Search Listings" and "View Listings" buttons are located below the form.

We recommend you specify both academic and June 09 classes as shown above. If you are graduate students or non-students, you may wish to search only (all others).

- Specify exactly what you are looking for, be sure to specify the move in date for "06/01/2009" (the website will put the slashes in for you). Note you do not have to choose all options, only the ones you are concerned with. You can specify min or max only (like min 4 bedroom, max $2000) and it will show you everything 4+ bedrooms and under $2000. The less specific you are, the more results you will get. Keep in mind you may be able to combine more than one unit at the same address to accommodate large groups.

- Once you get your search results, click the "Save Search" link at the top, now you will get an email each time we add a new listing that fits the search you just ran.

It's that easy!!

You can specify as many different searches as you like, to stop getting email notifications, simply log on and delete the searches. (Link to saved searches on the right side of the website in the grey column, once you are signed on.)

We like to keep prospective renters connected with the same agent throughout the rental process to avoid confusion and redundant work. After you make the initial contact write down the name and email address of the agent you are working with; should another agent happen to contact you from our office, kindly let them know you are working with someone already.

Also, if you see anything you like through this search process, you should email or call the agent you are working with, rather than using the "contact agent" link at the bottom of the listing detail pages. Lastly, consider visiting the rental process page for information on how our rental process works.

Simply give us a call if you need help with any of this, we are here to help you find the place that's best for you and your group.
